INS-301 COMPARISON MEMO

Dennis's new agency guide against the shipped package | HGF Management Company | July 11, 2026

July 11, 2026. Subject: Dennis's new Google Doc, "INS-301 Participating Public Agency Guide" (City, County, Joint Powers Authority), created July 11 and under active edit at the time of review. It is an outline: most chapters are headers and topic lists; Chapter 6 (legal and financing structure) is substantially drafted. Compared against the shipped package.

Fits the library cleanly

The INS-3xx slot is unclaimed; INS-301 becomes the participant-guide series. Registered in the Document Library Register as in progress, source of truth in the founder's Google Doc. No content imported; per the quarantine discipline, outline material is registered and compared, not adopted.

Where it confirms the package

One master district per agency with a recorded future annexation area and voluntary per-project annexations; the standardized rate-and-method; the special tax lien and prepayment right; SCIP and BOLD credited by name with INSITE positioned for the 2-to-50-lot segment they are not built around; no general fund obligation and limited agency liability; county-roll annual levy, delinquency administration, and continuing disclosure. All of this matches the whitepaper, the primer, the city brief, and operations manuals INS-401 and INS-501.

Two substantive deltas that need the founder's word

School fees. Section 6.5 lists school fees as eligible financing costs and Chapter 3 adds a "Benefits to School Districts" section. The shipped package says the opposite by standing decision: school fees are excluded at launch, and every surface carries that exclusion note (55 audited instances). Either the policy changed or the outline predates the decision. One-line answer needed.

Capital structure. Chapter 6.6 describes a revolving warehouse credit facility making per-project advances, with optional pooled tax-exempt bond refinancing after portfolio stabilization. The shipped external materials describe privately placed, tax-secured notes, one note per project. These may be the same idea at different altitudes (facility behind the scenes, note-shaped at the project level) or a structural evolution. The whitepaper, capital brief, and website hero all inherit whichever answer is right.

Minor scope growth, same family: eligible costs in 6.5 broaden beyond impact fees to public improvements, capitalized interest, and reserves; worth confirming before external documents widen their promises.

Name context

The guide is drafted under the INSITE name, hours after the Class 36 knockout tripped the stop rule. No action needed inside the outline now; a rename, if Option A lands there, is a find-and-replace at adoption time.

Mechanical defects, for the cleanup pass when wanted

"Table of Consents"; "Purpose of this Guild"; "INSTIE" twice in 9.10; "Benefits to Cites"; "Counites"; "Compparison"; "ProgramParticipants"; "Resolution to of Intention"; "This This combines"; duplicated 2.2/2.3 rows; the table of contents and body disagree on Chapter 1.3, Chapter 4's title and phase structure, and Chapter 3's beneficiary list (the body adds school districts and special districts the contents page lacks); Phase page numbers repeat 18 through 20 across all three phases.
